gives the Republican majority at from | death or dethrone reason. This is true 10,000 to 15,000. The election was attended with the most intense excitement and some bloodshed, the vote polled was the largest in the history of the Buckeye state, and the result is highly gratifying.

JOHN KELLY has shown his devotion to Stephen Grover by removing the scalp of "bosom friend" Dorsheimer, who has but lately added literary laurels to his political crown by writing Stephen G.'s biography for the country. Tammany has nominated another manto adorn Dorsheimer's seat in congress.

THE Boston bolters, once supposed to be the most tremendous political organization in the country, are now appealing to the Harvard students to come out and make a torchlight procession for an independent meeting. With the Harvard students and some primary school children bribed for the occasion they hope to make considerable of a show on a dark night.

In August last a man by the name of Joe Bogard was hanged at Lonoke, Ark. He stepped upon the platform, the noose was adjusted and the trap was sprung. For forty minutes, as is the custom in that state, the condemned man hung suspended in the air by the neck, and then being pronounced dead by the attending physician, the body was cut down. Upon the official record it was recorded that "the vital spark had fled," and the sheriff proclaimed that Bogard was as dead as a door nail. The body was placed in a wagon and delivered to relatives. Before reaching home, strange as it may seem, Joe uttered a groan, and upon examination it was discovered that he was not dead. The father of the supposed dead man poured some whisky down Joe's throat-who, it seems, always had a hankering after spirits-and by the time the parties reached home the injured man was able to get out of the wagon without help. Of course Joe's neck was somewhat stiff and sore, but otherwise he was in tolerable good health. The sheriff, ascerlishing the road petitioned for, and, on motion, the taining that Joe yet lived, went in northwest corner of section 30, town. 3, north of range search of him, but he has not yet been found. Bogard's friends are now feeing lawyers to ascertain if a man can be hanged twice for the same crime. THE presence of two certain cow punchers in town reminds us of an incident in which these same two figured. It happened in Culbertson, Nebraska. One of the boys drank enough liquor to elate him to such an extent that he stepped out in front of the crowd and offered a bottle of whisky to any man who could whip him. The prize was too great to be ignored, and a great big strapping fellow whom they call "Bob" stepped up to him and at it they went. It took Bob a very short time to thump his challenger very successfully. And then the victim, without a murmur, purchased the coveted quart and presented it to the man who had accommodated him. -Brush Lariat.

A LITTLE incident occurred recently in Kearney county worth telling, as showing the exigencies that befall the farmer, whom we have long been taught to reverence as the safest and most independent individual on earth. A farmer, whose wheat had suffered severely from the weather, drove into Minden with a load of it for sale. He was accompanied by his wife, who had a basket of eggs to dispose of. When they had finished their business the farmer was astounded to find that a dozen fresh eggs commanded just the same money as a bushel of rejected wheat-fifteen cents. It is a little tough on the son of toil to find that a hen can knock the spots off him as a producer of wealth. Topics.

THE recent affliction of the great actor, John McCullough, should and undoubtedly will be a lesson to other actors and actresess who are overworked to meet the demands of their managers and of the public. The activity of brain and high tension of nerves required of stars in order to keep up their reputations, lesion and intellectual collapse unless proper precaution and needed rest are hardly earned, will sooner or later cause proper precaution and needed rest are taken. There are certain bounds of en-THE latest from the Ohio election durance, which if passed, will cause of professional men, of all brain workers as well as to actors, and heed should also be taken by them of the lessons of the hour. - Republican.
